

The DO Magazine

November 2006

Table of Contents

War healers

Part 1 of The DO reports on heroes in the osteopathic medical profession profiles military DOs who display great courage and compassion on and off the battlefield. (9 pages, 1,062K, PDF)

DO veterinarian applies osteopathic principles to animals

Trained first as an osteopathic physician and acupuncturist, Narda G. Robinson, DO, DVM, becomes a pioneer in holistic veterinary medicine. (5 pages, 202K, PDF)

DOs, scientists, students honored for leadership, dedication

In conjunction with the 111th Annual AOA Convention and Scientific Seminar, the American Osteopathic Foundation held its fifth annual honors ceremony, a black-tie dinner, on Oct 16 in Las Vegas. (6 pages, 601K, PDF)

President's Voice

AOA President John A. Strosnider, DO, reflects on the AOA convention. (2 pages, 91K, PDF)

Executive director's desk

AOA Executive Director John B. Crosby, JD, discusses osteopathic graduate medical education. (2 pages, 57K, PDF)

To the point

Arnold Melnick, DO, emphasizes the importance of unspoken communication conveyed in physicians' offices. (2 pages, 134K, PDF)

OMS spotlight

A third-year medical student explores why he and other osteopathic medical students have chosen to become military physicians. (3 pages, 171K, PDF)

Newsbriefs

During the 111th Annual AOA Convention and Scientific Seminar in Las Vegas, the AOA bestowed its highest honor, the Distinguished Service Certificate, on three osteopathic physicians: John H. Finley Jr, DO, of Southfield, Mich; Howard L. Neer, DO, of Ft Lauderdale, Fla; and Edward A. Loniewski, DO, of Plymouth, Mich.

In addition, Ruth W. Perdy, DO, of Columbus, Ohio, was honored as the AOA's Mentor of the Year. (3 pages, 227K, PDF)

DOings

(1 page, 49K, PDF)

AOA at Work

(1 page, 54K, PDF)

In memoriam

(1 page, 55K, PDF)